

FFT completes takeover of MaxSec

Future Fibre Technologies Limited (FFT) (ASX: FFT), a global leader in fibre optic perimeter intrusion detection systems, is pleased to announce that its takeover offer for MaxSec Group Limited (ASX:MSP) closed on 21 December 2017, with the Company acquiring a relevant interest of 85.1% of MaxSec's fully paid, ordinary shares.

This is an exciting milestone for both FFT and MSP, our employees and customers. The greatest assets of both companies are their world leading technology and exceptional people. It is also a merger of two highly compatible firms. Our companies have worked together frequently in the past and share common directors. We also hold similar values and philosophies about how to do business; producing an excellent service for the customer, with an emphasis on honesty and integrity.

Today, we begin building a new global security industry group – in addition to FFT's market leading portfolio of fibre optic intrusion detection solutions we now offer BQT Solutions advanced range of high quality, high security card and biometric readers, and electromechanical locks together with Ava Global's secure international logistics services.

You can rely on the same personal working relationships that you have enjoyed to date. You will still be dealing with the same people and can depend on the same high quality service and we look forward to an exciting and prosperous future for all our key stakeholders including our employees, customers and shareholders.
